ORDER ON RECONSIDERATION

On May 4, 1990 the Montana Public Service Commission (Commission) issued a protective order in this Docket limiting access to and use of certain Entech materials and information.

In pertinent part, this Protective Order provided as follows:

1. (b) Use of Confidential Information and Persons Entitled to Review. All Confidential Information made available pursuant to this Order shall be given solely to counsel for the parties, and shall not be used or disclosed except for purposes of this proceeding; provided, however, that access to any specific Confidential Information may be authorized by said counsel, solely for the purpose of this proceeding, to those persons indicated by the parties as being their experts in this matter. Any such expert may not be an officer, director or employee (except legal counsel) of the parties, or an officer, director, employee or stockholder or member of an association or corporation of which any party is a member, subsidiary or affiliate. Any member of the Public Service Commission, and any member of its staff, the Consumer Counsel, and any member of his staff may have access to any Confidential Information made available pursuant to this Order, and shall be bound by the terms of this Order.

On May 11, 1990 the Commission received a motion for reconsideration from the Department of Natural Resources and Conservation (DNRC), a party to this proceeding.

In its motion, DNRC asserts that it is a public agency, similar to the Commission and the Montana Consumer Counsel, which employs its own in-house experts who have no competitive interest in the protected confidential information. According to DNRC, application of the protective order as issued essentially requires it to expend public funds to hire private "experts" when in-house employees are otherwise available.

DNRC requests that the protective order be revised to respond to the governmental functions exercised by state agencies in rate regulation matters. Accordingly, DNRC contends that the protective order should be modified to allow its employee "experts" access to the protected confidential information. Since these employees have no "competitive interest" in the protected information, disclosure to them does not impair the rights of utilities recognized and protected in Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. v. Department of Public Service Regulation, ___Mont.____, 634 P.2d 181 (1981).

The Commission agrees with the analysis presented by DNRC in its motion and accompanying brief. Accordingly, paragraph 1(b), quoted above, is hereby amended as follows:

- (b) Use of Confidential Information and Persons Entitled to Review. All Confidential Information made available pursuant to this Order shall be given solely to counsel for the parties, and shall not be used or disclosed except for purposes of this proceeding; provided, however, that access to any specific Confidential Information may be authorized by said counsel, solely for the purpose of this proceeding, to those persons indicated by the parties as being their experts in this matter. Any such expert may not be an officer, director or employee (except legal counsel) of the parties, or an officer, director, employee or stockholder or member of an association or corporation of which any party is a member, subsidiary or affiliate. Any member of the Public Service Commission, and any member of its staff, the Consumer Counsel, and any member of his staff, and staff members of intervenor State agencies, may have access to any Confidential Information made available pursuant to this Order, and shall be bound by the terms of this Order. (emphasis upon amendment)
